Agnetha's work has received extensive press coverage in editorial publications such as Vogue, Elle, Home & Country and Design Week.

As well as being short listed for the Summer Show at The Royal Academy of Arts, invited to OCCCA in L.A, exhibited on The London Underground and has taken it's proud place at the heart of the British and Swedish art scene.

Lee Myung Hee, the Editor in Chief of Vogue in Korea, reached out to Agnetha to feature her in the very first Vogue 'Dog & Cat' book.

“My form of self-expression really comes firstly through my choice of media, then I apply that to each sculpture. I collect so many sources of memorabilia and my collections are vast.”

“The dogs are my 3D canvas, by using special materials that spend most of their life packed away, I can enjoy all of the wonderful stories and images while working, rather than them sitting on a book shelf.”

Agnetha's background as a designer, makes quality and sustainability the focus of her creative thinking. Born and educated in Sweden, Sjögren is a multi-disciplinary artist who brings art and design together whilst drawing inspiration from the relationship between urban life and nature.
